A stylized illustration of a bowl filled with food, resting on a tree branch. The bowl is orange and has a textured top. The branch is also orange and splits into two. The background is white.

There is no training context within moral education
that is as compact and saturated with the call to self-control and otherness-sensitivity than what flows out of mealtimes and manners.

parenting from the tree of life

Life

A stylized illustration of a bowl filled with food, resting on a tree branch. The bowl is orange and has a textured top. The branch is also orange and splits into two. The background is white.

There is no training context
within moral education
that is as compact and saturated
with the call to self-control
and otherness-sensitivity
than what flows out of
mealtimes and manners.

parenting from the tree of life

Life

A stylized illustration of a bowl filled with food, resting on a tree branch. The bowl is orange and has a textured top. The branch is also orange and splits into two. The background is white.

There is no training context
within moral education
that is as compact and saturated
with the call to self-control
and otherness-sensitivity
than what flows out of
mealtimes and manners.

parenting from the tree of life

Life

A stylized illustration of a bowl filled with food, resting on a tree branch. The bowl is orange and has a textured top. The branch is also orange and splits into two. The background is white.

There is no training context
within moral education
that is as compact and saturated
with the call to self-control
and otherness-sensitivity
than what flows out of
mealtimes and manners.

parenting from the tree of life

Life