

Growing Kids God's Way

Summary Outline - Visit 4 - Chapter 4

I. Introduction

A. Quality vs. Quantity Time

The practice of quality and quantity time as it relates to the development of human relationships, especially a father's relationship with his children, is a _____ concept, not a biblical one.

B. Spending quality and quantity of time with our children is not the goal; it is only the _____ to take us to our goal.

C. The quality and quantity of trust our children have in us is the only legitimate _____ measuring our relationship with them.

II. Learning to Build Trust

The eight mandates of a father

1. Fathers must cultivate a sense of family _____.

a. Verbally _____ your children.

b. Know where you're _____ with your family identity.

2. A father must provide an ongoing demonstration of _____ for his wife.

3. A father needs to understand and respect his child's private _____.

Three worlds.

c.

4. A father must give his children the _____ to fail.

5. Fathers need to be the _____ of the family.

6. Fathers must guard their tongue and tone and learn to measure their response against the _____ on their faces.

7. Fathers need to _____ their children.

8. If you are going to build a trusting relationship with your children, it must be built on _____ truth and not on man's wisdom.
